HOG MARKET OUTLOOK GOOD

Promises One of Most Profitable Lines for Ohio Farmers This Year.

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., May 19—Ohio farmers may safely depend on hogs during the coming 12 months because an overproduction is unlikely and prices are reasonably certain to remain on a fairly profitable level. From all indications hog production and feeding will continue to be one of the most profitable lines of general farming in Ohio.

The most favorable indication for the continuance of a fair price level is the probability against any great increase in supplies. On the other hand, the strongest factor tending to weaken the market is the curtailment in export demand from Europe.

Prices for hogs are now averaging about one dollar under last year, in the face of supplies which are below last year on the average. These lower hog prices are a reflection of cheaper prices for pork. The pork price during the past month has been from 10 to 20 per cent under last year. The fact that prices for hogs have been lower in spite of a decrease in numbers adds a decided element of strength to the market. It seems certain that the hog price at present is almost entirely free from any inflation or speculative values, so that an improvement in general business conditions is almost certain to lead to higher prices for dressed pork and hogs.

Feed Prices Low

Another factor is the relative cheapness of feed in comparison with hog prices. A part of this cheapness is more apparent than real because of the poor feeding qualities of last year's corn crop, but without any doubt, hog feeding is profitable today, and yet the profits are not such as to lead to any great expansion in numbers. There will be a large carryover of corn this summer to encourage the increase in production. The most reasonable expectation is for a continuance of about the same levels of production as is noted at this time.

Hogs have been marketed lighter during the past two months than a year ago.

This lighter marketing of hogs could have been anticipated from the smaller feed supplies. It indicates also the lack of any general tendency to hold back hogs for late summer feeding and rather suggests a stronger element in the hog price situation.

Poultry Supply Large

Pork prices, and consequently hog prices, are likely to be held down somewhat by an oversupply of poultry.

The holdings of poultry in storage are estimated at 77,000,000 pounds as against 53,000,000 pounds last year. While these supplies are almost 50 per cent larger than a year ago, it should be noticed also that the decline during April amounted to 28,000,000 pounds as against a decline last year of only 10,000,000 pounds.

Present low prices for poultry are apparently leading to greater consumption and will probably result in starting the season this fall without a burdensome supply of storage poultry. In view of so heavy a consumption of poultry products, it is little wonder that pork prices are fairly low in comparison with the supply.

America has exported more cured pork than last season, but the prices have been lower.

Lard prices in the important markets of this country are well below last year, and in Europe they are below pre-war levels. World supplies do not appear burdensome, according to reports, but the generally poor demand together with the favorable prices of competitive products have adversely affected the price of lard.

The outlook, however, is generally optimistic, with indications for improvement as the summer months wear on.

Halitosis makes you unpopular

If you are not as popular as you wish to be, look for the cause. Possibly it is halitosis (unpleasant breath)—the unpardonable social offense.

It is impossible for you to tell when you have halitosis. It never announces itself to you.

The one way to be sure of not having it is to rinse the mouth systematically every day with full strength Listerine—especially before meeting others.

Being an active germicide capable of killing 200,000,000 germs in 15 seconds, full strength Listerine checks mouth fermentation and infection—both a cause of odors. Then it gets rid of the odors themselves; it is an instant deodorant.

Keep a bottle handy in home and office. Use it every day. It puts you on the polite, popular and profitable side. Lambert Pharmacal Company, St. Louis, Mo., U. S. A.

SIX WOMEN SEEK HIGH OFFICE

FAIR SEX ACTIVE IN POLITICS IN MIDWEST

CHICAGO—Look to the middle west for an answer to the question: "Do women take an interest in politics?"

Six of them, from the cotton country of Texas to the industrial centers of Michigan are out for important offices in a like number of states A score or more other women will be satisfied with lesser political jobs state legislature and state administrative posts.

Ruth Hanna McCormick is the republican senate candidate in the republican state of Illinois Dr Jennie Callfas of Omaha is a democratic senatorial candidate in Nebraska In Texas Mrs. Robert Quincy Lee, widow of a congressman, would take his seat, and in Iowa Mrs June Fickle of Hastings, a democrat, disputes a congressional post.

Old age compensation will be one of the main talking points of Mrs Maud Slocum Moross of Detroit, who seeks the republican nomination for congress from the sixth district.

The opponents the women face this year will test thoroughly their campaigning ability Mrs McCormick must face the former democratic senator, James Hamilton Lewis, in November

Mrs Lee in a special election must dispute the come back ambitions of Thomas L Blanton, of Abilene, a former congressman and a veteran campaigner. Mrs Fickle, a farmer's wife, and a world war nurse, is the minority candidate in a heavily republican district, represented by C E Swanson • • •

DR CALLFAS, who bolted the democrats in 1928 would, if chosen by her party, meet the veteran Senator, George S Norris who bolted the republicans in 1928

Virtually all of the four opponents of Miss Pyle know the political alphabet She, however passed the primer stage when she became assistant and then secretary of state

The present incumbent, Grant M Hudson, a dry and State Senator Seymour H Person a wet will be in the melee against Mrs Moross

Mayor of Waldo Starts First Cleanup Campaign

WALDO May 18—Mayor Conklin has issued a proclamation to Waldo citizens setting aside this week as cleanup week

The old stone quarry on the Ward farm, east of town, has been officially designated by the village council as a dumping ground All rubbish is to be removed by residents and deposited at the quarry Mayor Conklin is asking cooperation of property owners in the first annual cleanup week

LAST NIGHT at the THEATERS

Dr. Fu Manchu Comes to Life

DR FU returns to life all right, more diabolical and fascinating than ever, but at the conclusion of "The Return of Dr Fu Manchu," the doctor hasn't carried out his threat to kill Neil Hamilton, and the picture is brought to a finish by pushing Dr Fu and his deadly bomb out into deep water Dr Fu is at the Palace tonight for the pleasure of his fans One left the theater with the thought that the ending of the picture presaged another talkie of Dr Fu's cunning

Warner Oland, of course, gives a dramatic interpretation of Dr Fu O P Heggie is again Nayland Smith chief of the Scotland Yard forces Neil Hamilton is Dr Petrie and Jean Arthur is Lia Eltham William Austin gives the comedy relief as Sylvester Wadsworth

Dr Fu plays a trick on his white friends by giving a grand Chinese funeral for himself Only his white friends have been too generous with him In keeping with Chinese custom no autopsy was held and the body wasn't embalmed Dr Fu has taken a mysterious poison, of which he is always concocting some deadly variety, and has only been in a state of catalepsy

The Chinese doctor, who has sworn revenge against the families of all connected with the troops that killed his wife and child in the Boxer Uprising 20 years before, has only one man, Neil Hamilton, to kill before the blood of his dear ones is removed from the Golden Dragon

Neil and Jean Arthur are ready to be married in a beautiful setting when Dr Fu, in his own mysterious and blood curdling way makes his reappearance The Scotland Yard men arrive after Fu has smuggled his Chinamen into the grounds of the home where Jean lives with her two maiden aunts and Jean and her aunt Evelyn Hall are whisked away to Fu's hiding place

The plot has clever twists Dr Fu has poisons that deaden the brain poisons that kill people poisons that do most anything Neal Hamilton and O P Heggie make a brainy struggle to find Jean and the way the picture works out is one cold chill after another

GRAF REACHES FIRST GOAL OF LONG FLIGHT

Stop Made Preparatory To Taking Off on Voyage Over Atlantic.

...ee passenger list. She will disem... ...ark the passengers, according to ... ...present plans, and take on three ... ...Those known to be booked for the ... ...transcontinental voyage will be Mrs. ... ...Mary Pierce, the Prince of Asturias, ...King Alfonso's cousin, and Lieutenant ... ...Emilio Herrera, Spanish aviation ... ...head.

The Graf will stop overnight at Seville before continuing across the Atlantic to the equator to Pernambuco and Rio Janeiro Brazil.

Before returning to Friedrichshafen, three weeks or more from now, Dr. Hugo Eckener, the ship's master, hopes to traverse about 18,000 miles—a journey unequaled in scope only by the Graf's circumnavigation of the globe last fall. From Rio Janeiro the craft will ride to Havana and Lakehurst, will then start the return transatlantic trip from the latter port.

Small Crowd at Takeoff

Save for friends and relatives of 22 passengers and 42 officers and crew, few witnessed the departure at Friedrichshafen.

Of the 22 passengers aboard, six will disembark at Seville, to make room for others who will fly to Rio Janeiro. Among those boarding the ship at Seville will be Mrs. Mary Pierce, of New York, whose persistence in making the unlucky transatlantic trip of last May against the wishes of her family almost brought diplomatic intervention.

Four of those aboard now are Americans, among them George Crouse of Syracuse, N. Y., who has flown with the ship before, and his sister, Mrs. Dorrance, of Syracuse. Four are women, among them being Lady Grace Drummond-Hay and Frau Hammer, wife of Fritz Hammer, who has been tried to pilot the Dornier plane DO-X, on its projected flight to South America.

Large Fuel Supply

The ship is carrying fuel and supplies sufficient for 120 hours of flying. Seville, where arrival was expected at 2 a. m. and these will be replenished at between 5 p. m. and 6 p. m. this afternoon (between noon and 1 p. m. eastern standard time). In view of the expected hot weather crossing the equator there are 1,500 pounds of ice and an unusual supply of water ballast aboard.

From Friedrichshafen to Seville is about 1,500 miles; from Seville to Pernambuco, or Recife, as it is also known, is about 3,750 miles, and from Recife to Rio Janeiro about 1,250 miles. This makes a total of about 6500 miles the ship must traverse before turning northward for Havana and the United States.

CITIZENS JOIN IN SEARCH FOR JUDGE

Rewards Totaling $1,000 Spurs Intense Hunt for Missing Jurist.

By The Associated Press

OAKLAND, Cal., May 19—Groups of citizens, spurred on by reward offers totalling $1,000, joined in increasing numbers today the intense hunt for Superior Judge Edward W. Engs, who disappeared last Friday from his home, where he was under treatment for illness.

Police sought new clues of his whereabouts with the positive declaration of one of the missing jurist's friends that he saw the judge alive more than 10 hours after his mysterious disappearance.

Of two things the authorities declared themselves sure: that Judge Engs had not drowned in Lake Temescal, and that he was not hiding in the underbrush surrounding his home on the Oakland side of the Contra Costa hills.

MAN AND WIFE HURT IN CRASH

Geoge Palmer in Hospital Injured Internally; Mrs. Palmer Taken Home.

Mr. and Mrs. George Palmer, 117 East Church st., suffered injuries in an automobile accident last night about 9:15 o'clock on the Prospect pk.

Mr. Palmer sustained possibly serious chest injuries. Mrs. Palmer was taken to City hospital and later removed to the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. S. Harris, 213 Park blvd., in the W. C. Boyd invalid car.

Mr. Palmer is in City hospital where his condition is regarded as fair.

The couple was coming to Marion. The glare of lights on the wet road, blinded Mr. Palmer and his car went off the road into a ditch, landing in a culvert.

rubbed sleepily and stifled yawns marked the hustle and bustle of preparation for the campaign, but the layout of ham, bacon and eggs, grapefruit, rolls and coffee stirred the fires that burst into flames of enthusiasm before the last minute instructions were given.

The army gathered at the club this morning surpassed last year's forces in number. Nearly 200 persons turned the club into military headquarters for the army that has pledged itself not to cease action until the Fund objective has been raised.

The program moved rapidly. Immediately after breakfast, Blair Clerk, campaign director, took the floor to issue last minute instructions and distribute the last rounds of ammunition to workers who will invade the business and residential areas of Marion in the next four days.

Workers "All Set"

Colonels Charles H. Isaly and Mrs. Samuel G. Rosenberg were called on for last minute orders to their subordinates. The workers were charged with the task of raising their part of the $72,903 to finance the activities of 10 worthy community and welfare agencies of the city.

Majors of the men's territorial division reported their units "all set," Mrs. Rosenberg, colonel of the women's units, repeated the expression.

The group was photographed in front of the Marion club before the drive proper got under way at 8:30 o'clock.

The army of workers paid for their own early bird breakfasts this morning and their lunches at a report meeting at noon today. They will also pay for report luncheons Tuesday and Wednesday noons and the victory dinner Thursday night.

'Cat Eye Annie' Stages Another Prison Escape

BULLETIN

By The Associated Press

AUBURN, N. Y., May 19—After less than seven hours of freedom in her latest of many jail and prison breaks, "Cat Eye Annie" McDowell, 48, who fled from the Auburn women's prison, was captured near Camillus, this afternoon.

AUBURN, N. Y., May 19—"Cat Eye Annie"—Lillian McDowell, 48, notorious burglar and one of the most elusive characters of the underworld when at liberty, escaped from the women's prison here during the night.

This was not the first time "Cat Eye" Annie has surmounted seemingly impossible obstacles to gain her freedom from iron bars and stone walls. Received at the prison Oct. 28, 1925, from Buffalo, she escaped on May 10, 1928, from a solitary cell in which incorrigible prisoners were confined. She was sentenced in October of that year to a 10-year term for grand larceny, imposed the day after she made a sensational escape from the Buffalo jail and had been captured because she sprained her ankle.

In her escape last night, she cut the wood around the lock in her cell door, on the second floor. From there she went down the corridor to the reception room on the first floor. There a light top coat and a fedora hat belonging to Warden Frank L. Heacox was taken by her. Donning this, and thus masquerading as a man, she fled. Prison matrons found on the table this morning a bundle of knotted blanket strips, which "Cat Eye" apparently left, believing them unnecessary in her flight over the wall.

Warden Heacox said that "it was almost humanly impossible for anyone to scale the wall because there was a man at the front gate and at every wall corner and search lights played upon the entire enclosure." The prisoner was not missed until 5:30 a. m.

CLEVELAND 897,458

Ohio Metropolis Falls Short of Million Mark, Census Shows.

Cleveland failed to attain the million population mark it had hoped to report, according to unofficial census returns announced today through the Associated Press.

The city reported a population of 897,458 which is an increase of 100,617 or 12.65 per cent.

Greater Cleveland, which includes all of Cuyahoga county, went beyond the million figure with an enumeration of 1,197,818. This is an increase of 254,423 or 26.76 per cent.

Cleveland Heights, a Cleveland suburb, increased 228.3 per cent in the past 10 years, its 50,123 figure being an increase of 34,859.

Local Masonic Order To Confer 3 Degrees Here

Annual Meeting of Marion Council, No. 22, R. & S. M., Will Be Held at Temple Wednesday Afternoon and Night; Officers Are in Charge.

Royal Master and Select Master's degrees and the Degree of Super Excellent Master will be conferred on a class of candidates at the annual meeting of members of Marion Council No. 22, Royal and Select Masters, Wednesday afternoon and night at the Masonic temple.

The stated assembly will open at 1:30 o'clock with the introduction of grand master, the inspecting officer and distinguished guests. Officers of Marion Council presiding are Frank W. Little, master; George E. Waddell, deputy master; Clyde C. Smith, principal conductor of work; Charles D. Schaffner, treasurer; James A. Knapp, recorder; John E. Davis, captain of the guard; Charles S. Burnside, conductor of the council; John T. Gruber, chaplain; Clifford W. Chapman, color bearer; Ralph K. Cheney, steward; William M. Tracy, sentinel.

Deputy Master George E. Waddell will preside for the conferring of the Royal Master degree at 2:15 o'clock and at 3 o'clock Master Frank W. Little, will preside for the conferring of the Select Master's degree. Dinner will be served at 6 o'clock by members of Lydia chapter, No. 83, Order of Eastern Star.

At 7 o'clock the council, candidates and guests will convene for the conferring of the Super Excellent Master degree. The work will open with the explanation of the emblems by Master Little. Deputy Master Waddell and Principal Conductor of Work Smith, assisted by 20 lodge members.

Section two of the opening part of the degree depicts the Jewish people taken captive by Nebuchadnezzar at the first and second sieges of Jerusalem and carried to Babylon several years prior to the last siege of Jerusalem.

Delivery of Jerusalem

Part one of section three portrays the delivery of Jerusalem into the hands of the King of Babylon and the desolation of the country and part two of the section shows the scene in the court of Zedekiah. The character of Zedekiah, governor of Judah will be portrayed by William J. Flea and that of Zedekiah, King of Judah, by Fred W. Warner.

The judgment passed by Nebuchadnezzar, King of Babylon, interpreted by George H. Van Fleet will be portrayed in section four and the work will conclude with section five, the pledging of faith and honor in the "Circle of Friendship."

the May Co. burglary for apparently furnishing a car for Harris.

Police say Harris has been living at the Schindorff home. Both men have criminal records, police say.

Officer McColly, who walked along Mill at half an hour before the shooting, said Schindorff's car was not parked there at that time. It is a Ford tudor with Michigan license.

All loot taken from the window of the May Jewelry Co., consisting of 27 wedding rings, three other rings, and three watches, has been recovered, according to police. Harris broke a small panel of the glass at one side of the window barely large enough to permit the entrance of his arm. He could not reach all the contents of the window, but had removed almost half the window's contents when apprehended. Sol Freed, manager of the store, valued the loot at $1,000.

The watches stolen from the Landes store have not been recovered.

Both Schindorff and Harris were recently released from Ohio State penitentiary on parole, according to information furnished police. Both are said to have been sentenced to that institution on July 26, 1926, on burglary and larceny charges from Findlay. Schindorff was released on Oct. 23, 1929, and Harris in January this year, according to police.

Is World War Vet

Harris is a World war veteran, and has a divorced wife and three children living.

Schindorff and his family moved here a few months ago and began operating a rooming house on the south side of Mill st. between Main and State sts. Schindorff also did some barber work here. A few weeks ago they moved to 800 Silver st.

Harris was born April 22, 1901, in McCombs, O. His father, Daniel N. Harris, is living, but his mother, Ida Burris-Harris, preceded him in death. Three sons, Jack, Charles and Roland, are living in North Baltimore, O.

Brothers and sisters are Otto L. Harris, of Warren, O.; Mrs. Neva Schaffer, Miland, Mich.; Mrs. Gladys Dennis, Baldwille, Mich.; and Mrs. Doris Schindorff, 800 Silver st.

Funeral services will be held at 2 o'clock Tuesday afternoon at the Hess, Markert & Axe funeral home, East Church st. The Rev. Lawrence A. Wood, pastor of Trinity Baptist church, will officiate. Interment will be made in Marion cemetery.

PASTOR RETURNS

Rev. J. W. Miles, Former Marion Minister, Preaches at U. B. Church.

The Rev. J. W. Miles, of Lima, former pastor of the First United Brethren church here, returned yesterday morning to preach. For his subject he used "Man's True Ownership." In his sermon he said: "This is an age of dispensation of the Holy Spirit. One of the most elementary principles of Christian thought and life is expressed in the words 'ye are not your own.' The fact of Divine ownership rather than self-ownership is the inspiration of all Christian dignity and strength. We are not our own because we have been bought. We are God's possession. If these bodies that we claim to be ours belong to God, we should be careful what we do with them and how we use them."

ONE of Briand's suggestions, in connection with his proposed United States of Europe, will seem strange, quite insane to our best financial minds.

Briand would not have business, or finance, control the new federation. That, you will admit, is almost bolshevism.

Let M. Briand come here and learn something. He will find 48 states bowing submissively to the government of corporations and high finance, accepting, as though brought down by Moses, the command: "Thou shalt not let this government engage in any kind of business. It is not capable or honest enough to manage anything."

Max Valier, inventor and builder of the rocket-propelled automobile and airship, is dead, killed in one of his experiments. Only 35 years old, born in Germany, a descendant of French Hugenots, a brilliant astronomer, mathematician and physicist, his death is a great loss to science.

He is one of countless workers sacrificing their lives for the public good. Death marks all the paths of progress with its gravestones.

The first maker of bows and arrows was probably killed as a sorcerer when he destroyed life at a distance. Alchemists unnumbered sacrificed their lives in studies and experiments that have changed alchemy to chemistry, foundation of modern industrial prosperity.

Cannon Defends Stock Exchange Activities

DALLAS, Tex., May 19—The Dallas News today said that Bishop James Cannon, Jr., had testified before the Episcopacy committee of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, that he had traded on the New York Stock Exchange in the belief he was dealing with a legitimate concern, but developments had proved error in his judgments.

Troubles of the militant bishop have proved an outstanding point of interest at the quadrennial general conference of the church which today entered what probably will be its last week. A report today of Josephus Daniels, former secretary of the navy, chairman of the committee on temperance and social welfare, also was awaited with much concern.

Other Casualties

Those killed in other accidents in Ohio were:

Miss Elizabeth Sheerer, 72, struck by an automobile while crossing a downtown street in Dayton.

Mrs. [illegible] Jones, 20, whose automobile overturned on the National highway five miles east of Reynoldsburg.

George Groneman, 64, Cincinnati, struck by a machine while on his way home from church.

Miss Grace Dennis, Springer, N. M., Ohio State university freshman, thrown in front of a car when her horse slipped and fell.

John J. Kinney, Cincinnati Republican leader, his wife, David Linn, 70, and his daughter-in-law, Mrs. Minnie Linn, 30, were seriously injured when their automobile skidded on a wet pavement and plunged them into a 75-foot ravine.

John Shatto, 22, Sidney high school football star, was killed and Arthur Haskeep and William Carper were injured seriously in an automobile wreck north of Sidney last night. Shatto's neck was broken.

Roscoe Ward, 34, Columbus, died in a hospital early today of injuries received in an automobile collision in front of his home.

David Linn, 75, died at Cincinnati today from a fractured skull and crushed chest suffered yesterday in an automobile accident.

NAME DAY MANAGER OF MARION AIRPORT

Concern Operating Landing Field Here Announces Change in Staff.

Roy M. Day, of Columbus, well-known among local aviation enthusiasts, has been appointed manager and chief pilot of the Marion municipal airport, M. J. Glaser, of the Marion Airways, announced today.

Day succeeds William A. Butters, who left today for Johnstown, Pa., where he will be employed at the city airport there.

The new pilot appeared at the local port on numerous occasions last summer to carry passengers. He has been a commercial pilot for eight years.

Prior to coming here, Day was an airplane salesman for the Logan Aviation Co., of Cleveland.

MARION PUPILS GET TRAINING IN BAND

City School Music Director Forms Junior Organization for Grade Students.

time, tone, and general musicianship is splendid. The other day at a party given the youngsters, they contributed several numbers to the program, including "Activity March," and "Military Escort."

The band has had 20 practices, and after Mr. Evans saw the interest and enthusiasm which he had aroused in organizing the younger boys and girls, he decided to make the band a permanent school organization.

Pupils trained in this band will be better fitted, and know more music when they are ready to play in the high school band than the average student who goes into it at Harding High school, Mr. Evans believes.

Last year in going through his music material in the schools Mr. Evans found very few brass instruments, but this year there were enough to start the band and he immediately began talking to the boys and girls in the grade schools, getting up their interest, until the organization was complete.

At present there are students playing in the band from Central and Vernon Junior High schools, Pearl, Greenwood, Olney, Glenwood, Oakland Heights, Silver, Oak and Forest Lawn schools.

Robert Campbell, nine, in the fourth grade at Pearl Street school, is the youngest member of the band. He plays a trumpet, and he plays it well.

Cabin Liners Grow in Popularity.

The entrance of the new French line cabin motor ship, Lafayette, into the transatlantic service, last week, is another indication of the marked impress the cabin liner has made on North Atlantic travel in comparatively recent years.

When the staunch former German liner, Amerika, was renamed the America, and put into service by the United States lines as a cabin ship, something like six or seven years ago, the majority, if not all, the big foreign lines couldn't see any future in the utilization of a vessel of her size in that way. Her tonnage of 21,320 was held too great and she was held to be too fine a vessel for such a classification. But the judgment of the United States people held good, and the wonderful success she attained during her first year of service and has since maintained has literally revolutionized the North Atlantic shipping business. All the vessels of the United States Lines, Inc., save the Leviathan, are now cabin ships, even the palatial George Washington being now thus rated. Every line of consequence in the North Atlantic passenger business now has a fleet of cabin liners, a number of them have changed the rating of some of their largest and finest vessels. And now France puts the Lafayette into transatlantic service as a cabin ship.

The new French liner has a net tonnage of 25,000, and is the second largest Diesel-engined vessel afloat. The style and decorations of her public rooms are said to be even more advanced than those of the Paris and the Ile de France, the latter the flagship and pride of the French line and her tourist third-class accommodations are declared to be far more comfortable and luxurious than those of any of the big express liners. The feature about her which will most appeal to many, however, is her speed. She is expected to cross the Atlantic in seven days, whereas the majority of the cabin liners take eight or nine.

Why shouldn't the cabin liners be popular? Such a liner as the Lafayette, capable of making her run in seven days, assures as speedy a trip across the Atlantic as many of the first-class liners and a faster one than some of them. And there's the marked difference in cost. A fine outside cabin, with bath, may be had for two for from $440 to $460, while the same accommodations on a fast first-class liner will cost from $1,000 to $1,100. The majority of the travelers of today can appreciate a saving of approximately $1,100 to a couple on a trip to Europe and return.

Honors to the Late Fridtjof Nansen.

The great popular demonstration planned for last Saturday in Oslo in celebration of the twenty-fifth anniversary of the separation of Norway from Sweden was abandoned that the honor of a national funeral might be paid to one of the greatest sons of the nation—Fridtjof Nansen.

Scandinavia has given the world many men notable in the particular field each entered but Nansen was notable in many fields of endeavor. Beyond question, it was as an explorer that he first attracted the attention and interest of the world. Doubtless his accomplishments in exploration smoothed the way for him in the many other lines of endeavor in which he achieved fame, but be this as it may, the world must esteem him in memory as one who was as well a student, a scholar, a scientist, a statesman, a diplomat, a patriot, a humanitarian and a worker for the peace of the world.

Despite the fact that his life had been replete with adventure, work and attainment; despite the fact that he had reached an age—sixty-nine—when most men are content to look back over the past rather than ahead into the future, death took him as he was planning and eager for what he looked forward to as the crowning achievement of his career, a flight by dirigible across the north polar regions.

In his boyhood, Nansen spent his winters on skis and his summers sailing the fjords. At twenty he shipped on a sealer and hunted seals and polar bears. All these experiences gave him valuable knowledge which was of aid to him in his Arctic explorations, but the world knew little of them till he told of them in a book, written and illustrated by him five years ago, which demonstrated that he was not without knack as a writer and possessed ability as a pen and ink sketch artist.

Nansen was curator of the national museum in Bergen from 1882 to 1888. The latter year he undertook his famous walk across Greenland on skis. Back from Greenland, he was made curator of comparative anatomy at Christiana university. On the memorable voyage of the Fram, 1893-1896, he left that vessel at eighty-four degrees north, and with a companion attained a latitude of eighty-six degrees and fourteen minutes—the farthest north up to that time. And here it may be said that the data given the world by Nansen, unlike that of some explorers, was never questioned, never found wrong.

When Norway broke away from Sweden in 1905, Nansen was named by King Haakon VII as Norway's first minister to London. During the World war Nansen made several trips to this country in the interests of his government, and in 1918 succeeded in securing the release of Norwegian food ships held in our ports. In 1919, while active in League of Nations deliberations, he was named high commissioner, with Herbert Hoover, to arrange with Russia for relief work control. He not only gave his energies in behalf of the starving of Russia, Armenia and Greece, but also worked for the repatriation of prisoners of war in Russia and the Balkans. For his efforts he was awarded the Nobel peace prize and hailed as the "Viking of Peace." Nor did it stop there, medals, memberships and other honors were conferred on him by societies, universities and other institutions, not only in Europe, but here in America as well.

Such was the man who, in death, called out tributes of honor and respect alike from his own land and the heads of governments all over the world; the man named by some, by reason of his scientific achievements, his perfection of methods of polar travel, combined with his modernization of sledging and devising of specialized Arctic equipment, as first among the explorers of his generation.

May Carry Needed Lesson.

Policeman A. W. McColly, who shot and mortally wounded a burglar fleeing from the scene of his crime, early Sunday morning, is being commended alike for his vigilance and his marksmanship.

There must ever be a measure of regret over the taking of human life, but there is also ground for regret that criminals invite such a fate by their warfare against society.

The appropriation of the property of others has become far too common in this city. The burglary of two jewelry stores in the city during the same night season is added evidence of the fact. Breaking in a show window less than half a block from the public square makes evident how bold criminals have become locally. The shooting down of one of them right on the heels of the commission of his crime may carry a needed lesson to others criminally inclined. Let us hope that it will.

If recent intimations are to be credited, we were wrong in figuring that Mr. Cox again had designs on the Ohio gubernatorial chair. The word now is that he believes that, as a member of the United States senate, he could render invaluable service in ridding that one-time great body of what's ailing it.

The Geronimo, stolen eighteen months ago from the government dock in Fort Wayne, Michigan, following her seizure in the Straits of Mackinac with $250,000 worth of contraband liquor aboard, was captured by a government patrol boat, last week, at the entrance of Green bay and found to have a cargo of 4,500 cases of assorted liquors aboard valued at $600,000. It might pay the government to make stealing her as easy of accomplishment as possible.

Editorial Opinion.

IT IS TIME.

Has the nation nurtured a serpent in its bosom? Congress, at last, moves to determine whether this be so.

No more important, or significant, action has in ten years been taken by congress than its present constructive move to subject Communists and Communist propaganda and all collateral kindred organizations and activities, to a searching legislative investigation.

The public is given the gratifying assurance that Representative Snell's resolution providing for a proper house committee for this purpose will certainly be passed some time next week.

It is time that this issue should be met in a proper and forceful way. Through a soviet organization, subtle appeal is made to selfish economic interest, whose opportunism reeks little of possible sinister eventualities in the future. It represents one tentacle of the octopus which seeks the destruction of capital and government as constituted in liberal democracies.

Other tentacles have reached into our industrial life, into our churches, and their societies, into our prisons, schools and universities, into the municipal life of our metropolitan centers and into the affairs of our hamlets and villages.

All America should rejoice that congress now proposes to investigate a situation which has become more than alarming, actually dangerous; a situation which has drawn into its destructive web a part of the American press, religious support of peace at any price and outcry against even absolutely essential defensive national armament to meet possible foreign aggression.

Men and women—some of them distinguished figures in the public eye—have long been going up and down the land making utterance that tended to undermine our republican form of government—some directly, and others indirectly. The more openly radical inciting to riot, sabotage and other revolutionary disorders. But the time has arrived when, as was the case in England, the entire red development in the United States is to be examined, disclosed and dealt with after the manner of its desert.

The congressional committee appointed for this purpose will, it is believed, not lack for facts, for evidence in this matter that will convince congress and the people that a serpent is present among us, insidious, venomous and dangerous.

This proposed survey ought to become responsible for prompt and effective legislative action suitable to meet the increasingly evil development of un-American thought and activity in this country.—Cincinnati Enquirer, May 16.

Correct Eating and Longevity.

BY ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.

Nutritional failure and how to avoid it, is a subject to which more thought should be given.

The fad of "stay thin" is still with us, but that there is danger in it can not be denied. The danger to those over-zealous ones lies in the fact that many of them are headed for a short life instead of a long one. Staying thin means an undernourished body.

I know many a man who is so busy making money that he has no time for deliberate eating. People who rush through the day's work, those who snatch a doughnut and coffee for lunch time, not stopping for rest and real food, are not fooling the undertaker a particle.

Since the delicatessen diet has become so popular, many persons are beginning to wonder just how far we can go in being fed from brown paper bags! Let us be sensible about our eating.

It is a long road back to the home-cooked food of our mothers' and grandmothers' time. Those were the days when the house was filled with the appealing odors of long rows of newly baked bread, pies and cakes, twice a week. Home was a real place in those days!

Our forefathers were a sturdy race. They ate more of the homely but nourishing foods than we do today. They lived a more leisurely life, and life was not the strenuous pace that it is now. We should take more care of our diet and ways of living today.

There will never be a time when unsatisfactory substitutes can replace real honest foods for the average family. Good health and strength depend upon meat and potatoes, good bread and butter, fresh and wholesome cooked vegetables and fruits, and the milk products. You just can not get along without these foods if you want to be well.

The average American diet often lacks in the necessary vitamins. It is a simple matter to secure an abundance of vitamins if milk or the milk products, such as cheese, fruits and tomatoes, as well as the leafy green vegetables, are taken in large enough amounts. When we speak of the leafy vegetables we mean such vegetables as spinach, lettuce, cauliflower and cabbage.

One of our eminent nutritionists, Dr. H. C. Sherman, has offered the following family budget plan for securing the necessary vitamins: "To spend at least as much for fruit and vegetables as for meat and fish; also to spend at least as much (or milk as for meat (or for milk and cheese as for meat and fish)." This is a very good rule to follow.

You can not enjoy robust health if there is a nutritional lack. Each day the diet should contain at least a pint of milk for adults and a quart for the growing child, two salads and two liberal helpings of the leafy portion of green vegetables, one small helping of meat, and one or two eggs, besides bread and butter, fruits and other vegetables.

From infancy to old age, diet is the chief source of energy and growth. On the whole, people are becoming enlightened to the great dangers of nutritional failure. Our girls are being trained in both public and private schools more and more in the art of home-making and cooking. The public has free lectures, the radio, the public press and all manner of periodicals setting forth the value of proper diet and how to secure it.

There is another thing to think of and that is the importance of regularity in the meals. Have a set time for your meals. Have your menus regularly and systematically good. Take enough time so that you can eat leisurely. Make a pleasant ceremony of the meal. Thus you may live long and happily.

Unseen Planets.

BY ARCHIBALD HENDERSON.

In the midst of the excitement and furore over the discovery of the new body, pronounced a planet by the astronomers of the Lowell observatory at Flagstaff, little has been said of the predictions of Professor W. H. Pickering. To this subject he has devoted much of his time since 1908.

In 1910 Pickering believed that four transneptunian planets would ultimately be found. Observation did not confirm these predictions. One year later he established himself at Mandeville in Jamaica, and since that time has been making exhaustive studies of the unseen planets which he believes to exist beyond Neptune.

Over a long period of years he has been studying certain comets and also calculating the paths of the three theoretical planets which he now believes to exist. In making these calculations he has proceeded upon the same general principles which guided Le Verrier and Adams in locating Neptune.

There are many deviations in the movements of the known outer planets which yet remain unexplained. There are certain comets slipping quietly through transneptunian space in vast elliptical orbits which can not be accounted for by the influence of the known bodies.

For instance, he predicts the existence of a body which he calls Planet O, with a mass of about three-fourths that of the earth, and a diameter of about 7,000 miles. He predicted that in February, 1928, Planet O would be distant about 2,800,000,000 miles from the earth, and should show up as a star of about the twelfth magnitude. Concerning this theoretical planet he said:

"The existence and position of Planet O is evidenced by perturbations or deviations in Saturn, Uranus and Neptune. The maximum deviation of Neptune occurred in 1904, when Neptune was about 60,000 miles out of its computed orbit. It is my judgment that at this time O passed relatively near Neptune.

"An unexplained deviation of Uranus occurred in 1841. It was about 20,000 miles out of course. This perturbation is explained by my computed orbit for Planet O, which places O in conjunction with Uranus in that year. Then, there are three perturbations of Saturn which remain after the gravitational influence of all the known planets has been accounted for. These disturbances occurred in 1850, 1885 and 1917. I account for them by the proximity of the unknown O in those years.

"The orbit of O is elliptical and cuts across the orbit of Neptune. For one-half of its revolution around the sun O is travelling between the paths of Uranus and Neptune, and for the other half it swings far beyond Neptune's path.

"Planet O's period of revolution is about 165 years. It appears to be a sort of twin planet with Neptune, though much smaller."

The two other hypothetical planets, which Pickering believes to exist, have been named by him Planet S and Planet P. Planet S has a mass five times that of the earth. It moves in an orbit about 1,459,000,000 miles distant and should show up as of the tenth magnitude.

Planet P is a body which outweighs the earth nineteen times. It moves in an orbit 6,300,000,000 miles from the sun. Although this is more than double the distance of O, Planet P on account of its larger size reflects more sunlight and should rate in brightness as of the eleventh magnitude.

None of these planets has yet been observed, so far as is known. None of them agrees in distance and orbit with the recently discovered Planet X. Verification lies, if at all, in the future.—Copyright, 1930, International Feature Service, Inc.

Perhaps the most representative New York audience ever collected in a theater attended the special invitation performance of "Show Boat" for the guest of honor — Charles Lindbergh. Each was especially invited, and everybody watched the "Lone Eagle" instead of the show.

Tickets for a premiere are not on sale at agencies or the box office. More than half the house is given away to critics, personal friends of the producer, star, etc. The rest are sold to a favorite list—usually "people of importance"—who send checks to the management.

It is the custom of most producers to hold out from four to six seats among the first rows nightly for sudden emergencies. These are held until ten minutes of 8 and if not used are sold at the box office. This is why a late and casual customer often finds himself holder of the best seats in the house.

"In one of your barking-back moments," writes W. S. P., "I'd like to join you in a good cry out loud in Times square for the passing of the old-time minstrel show with its Lew Dockstaders, Honey Boy Evanses, Neil O'Briens and Billy B. Vans."

Since I hopped on the wagon I don't cry out loud publicly any more. But I'll go into a huddle with you for a few suppressed spiffles in private. — Copyright, 1930, McNaught Syndicate, Inc.

Can Opener Growing in Popularity.

The supreme court has been asked to help prevent the sale of bottles, jugs, flasks and other containers of liquor. Shucks, Canada is now putting it down here in cans and all that is needed on a party is a sharp can opener.—Florida Times-Union.

The Way of the World.

BY GROVE PATTERSON.

A teacher in a Brooklyn school has won a gold medal and $7,500 for writing the best book on the humanizing of knowledge. His book is called "Crucibles," and it tells the history of chemistry with especial attention to the human factor in the drama. Books like that are especially useful and inspiring. Knowledge apart from humanity, the human trials and struggles and pains which produce it, will interest but few and inspire fewer. The story of man and his effort to learn is the most stimulating chapter in the story of the universe, and this little part of it we call the earth.

Though we speak of the earth as but a small part of the universe and sometimes think of life on this planet as only an unimportant incident in the ceaseless movement of solar systems, we need not, and should not, underestimate life. For after all, the life of a single human being is vastly more interesting and significant than whole masses of inanimate matter, whether they be planets, stars or suns. Clarence Darrow, decrying the importance of little man, tries to explain away the significance of life. But what is a universe without life but a vast void.

Darrow thinks man is conceited because he dares to believe himself important. Darrow is conceited because he thinks he knows.

Hunters often think that the game in the fields and woods and on the wing is all for them. But the non-killer has his rights—rights in beauty and enjoyment. Hunting is restricted, but it is not restricted too much. Woods and fields and birds and beasts are nature's gift to men, to all men, and not merely to gun experts.

The kindly heart is not driven by the hope of reward. Kindness is the gentlest and sweetest gift of the human. Real kindness is never on a cash basis. Mrs. John Newton, Springfield, Massachusetts, woman, didn't think of it in that way. And yet, Mrs. Newton has just received $30,000 as her share in the will of a former tramp to whom she was kind and to whom she gave food, a little clothing, and fifty cents sixteen years ago. It's a pleasant story and true.

In one of the branch banks of a Boston savings institution, there is a department for children who save their money. It is made with low counters and small-scale fittings and furniture. Can you imagine the delight of a child going to this bank and depositing his pennies just like grown folks? That is putting a real dent of thrift in the plastic mind.

Financial Institutions Favor Home Modernizing Movement

Commonplace Residence Turned Into Brick Home

Handsome Veneer and Beautiful New Lines Change Appearance of Old House; Bay Windows and Porch Eliminated in Remodeling.

The handsome brick veneer home at the left resulted from the modernization of the commonplace looking frame structure shown in the circle. If you look closely at the two pictures you can easily see that these are photographic reproductions of the same picture and after, for the former house next door serves admirably as a point of contact.

Over the older frame building as a base, the brick wall has been run up along the walls. A wooden trim is used at the windows and doors.

The use of a brick veneer adds considerably to the appearance of this building, giving it a sturdy, substantial air that reflects prosperity and taste. Yet at the same time the new lines of the building show the artist's appreciation of the head in design.

Brick Terrace Used

The old wooden porch across the front of the original dwelling was torn away, its place being taken by a brick and concrete terrace, covered at the end by a sharply pitched roof supported by two brick columns. An arch between the two columns adds a touch of distinction to this part of the structure.

The treatment of the front door is in keeping with the new design. The door is constructed with small paned glass lights, extending almost to the sill. Over the head is a wooden semi-circular paneled trim with an extended shelter painted white. A frosted globe beside the entrance gives illumination at night.

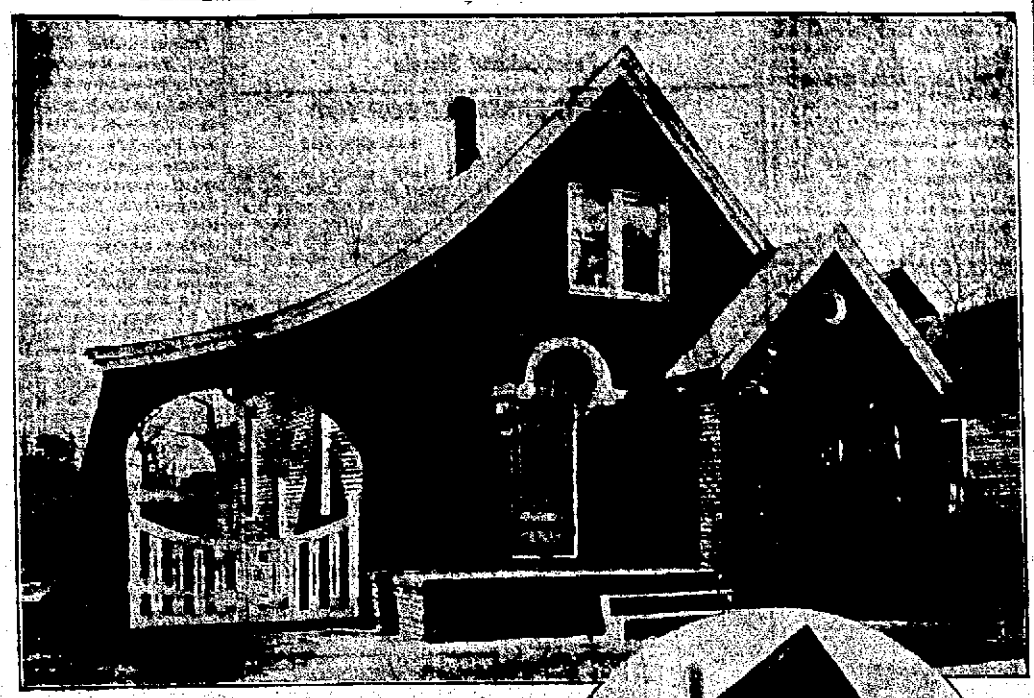
Pleasing Roof Lines

The roof lines are pleasing as viewed from the street. The face of the front wall has been extended to the lot line, allowing the roof line to make a graceful sweep. This extension is pierced by the garage drive and an arch is formed over this driveway. Attractively designed wooden gates, painted white, guard the driveway.

The old-fashioned bay of windows which allow the entrance of light into the front chamber on the second floor has been discarded in favor of an opening filled with two sliding windows. The upper sash in each window contains six lights.

The arrangement of the rooms in this dwelling has not been disturbed although the touch of modernization is apparent to the visitor. Hardwood floors take the place of the older soft wood. The walls have been covered with canvas and tinted with several coats of flat paint. Up to date plumbing is found in the bath room and a shower adds to the convenience of this room.

CRUDE LOOKING HOUSE MADE ATTRACTIVE



The casual passerby would declare that this residence was brand new this year. But it has simply been modernized from the old-fashioned looking house in the circle.

Just a plain, everyday house with no pretentions to beauty of design. Today it is the handsome brick veneer dwelling pictured at the top of the page.

NON-CORROSIVE PIPE CHECK REPAIR BILLS

Old-Style Plumbing Causes Sluggish Flow of Water; New Work Inexpensive.

Years ago the value of non-corrosive pipes for all types of plumbing was not appreciated by builders as it is today.

Our immediate fore-fathers often neglected time-defying materials and specified pipes of lesser worth. As a result any water lines are far from being able to conduct a full-flowing stream, due to the accumulation of corrosion and rust inside. The water trickles slowly instead of flowing with a satisfying gush.

When remodeling your home or purchasing a house already built, look after the plumbing. Examine the entire system thoroughly to see that it is up to par. Don't pass it up with a casual inspection but give it a careful examination. Make certain that every pipe is built of non-corrosive material.

No matter how strong and substantially built the rest of the house may be, if the plumbing is bad trouble is certain to result. A house may be 100% sound in other respects, but a rustable plumbing system will ruin the investment.

The time to repair the damage is before it happens—while the house is in the hands of the contractors who are making the needed alterations. Better spend a little extra money then and avoid bigger expense later on.

About one half of one per cent of the cost of the house will pay the extra expense connected with the installation of non-corrosive plumbing. Just fifty dollars on a ten thousand dollar house will insure a water supply that will flow constantly, cleanly and everlasting with no diminishing of the size of the stream.

If a criminal has money it's easy to convince his lawyer that he is innocent.

Varied Sources Ready To Give Aid to Remodelers

Law Enacted In 1927 Gives National Banks More Latitude on Loans on Real Property; Building and Loan Association Also Big Factor.

When the question of modernizing the house arises one of the problems that immediately confronts the home owner is that of finance.

Where is the money to come from which will pay for the work? How can it be raised?

Today the problem of raising money for modernization is not so difficult as it was years ago. Modern financial institutions approve of the principles of the Home Modernizing Movement and are willing to finance improvements to a reasonable degree.

Banks Given More Latitude

National banks through a law enacted in 1927 are now permitted to loan as much as one-half of their savings deposits on realty loans for a period not to exceed five years.

This allows many millions of dollars to be devoted to this type of reconstruction. Previously the money deposited in savings accounts was invested by law in other types of securities.

National banks together with other commercial banks will in time grow into an important factor in home modernization.

Building and Loan Important

The Building and Loan Associations scattered about the country are important factors in the financing of remodeled homes.

At the present time there are about thirteen thousand of these associations actively engaged in loaning money on real estate. Their assets exceed $7,000,000,00 and their loans to 800,000 approximate $2,110,000,000.

The citizen who believes that the building and loan associations are interested only in the construction of new homes will be interested in learning that these associations are actively pushing the Home Modernizing Movement.

In Oklahoma, for instance, the State League of Building and Loan Associations has organized a definite campaign to encourage home modernizing.

Other financial institutions such as insurance companies, private loan concerns and mortgage companies look on the home owner as a safe outlet for their money.

Good Risk

The point to be remembered is that money loaned for modernization is a first class investment. Little or no risk is involved for the money is devoted to improving the property upon which the loan is placed. This property becomes more valuable because of the loan.

Property owners who hesitate about improving their dwellings because of the financial aspects involved, need not hesitate or be self-conscious about approaching a bank or building and loan association or other financial institution for money if this money is to be placed into modernization. They will meet with a cordial reception and secure a courteous, sympathetic audience. Granted that their title is clear, their plans sound and the funds available, they will find these officials willing to cooperate.

HOME OF NEW CONCERN

RECEIVER HELPS

Device Provides Outside Package Delivery Service

During stormy weather, the housewife often objects to the delivery boys, tracking mud, snow or slush into the kitchen. Much inconvenience is avoided by equipping the kitchen or side entrance with a package receiver, a steel box that fits into the wall and opens from the outside or inside.

An automatic locking device prevents the removal of packages except from within. Early morning milk deliveries or deliveries made while the housewife is shopping are rendered secure by this receiver. It maintains privacy in the kitchen and puts an end to doorstep deliveries.

A confusing thing is that 100 different diseases have the same symptoms.

Some men are so busy being lazy that they have'nt much time for anything else.

CHAPTER 11

Annersley Speaks Out

ANNERSLEY'S voice was tender as he patted Celia's hand.

"It's all right, Celia. I didn't kill him. Miss Jahries gave me all the alibi I'll need. What do you want to know, Samuels?"

"The truth. What was the trouble between you and Parados?"

"Business—the Fleetwood Trading company."

"Go ahead."

"I met Parados 10 years ago," Annersley began bitterly. "He hadn't much money then. The idea of the company was sound. Parados wanted another hundred thousand, I let him have it. He was a wizard at business.

"We made money. I was satisfied, up to a couple of months ago." Bitterness was in Annersley's eyes.

"The company didn't mean much to Parados by now—he had a dozen—but it meant everything to me. There was an opportunity to get some beach property, he said. Did I want to go in pretty deep? I did, since he recommended it. I had about $50,000 loose—and I turned it over to him.

"A month later he told me the stuff was worthless. 'An error of judgment,' he said. The liar! He said the board—his board—had voted to accept a ridiculously small offer from another of his companies. It would finish the Fleetwood company and take my $50,000, too. I'll be out $150,000!"

"You will be? Hasn't it gone through yet?"

"It's—pending."

"Mmm. What are you doing here tonight?"

"I thought I'd try a last appeal."

"It failed?"

"He was killed before I could talk to him," Annersley said huskily.

"What did you mean by 'pending'?" Samuels asked.

"Just that—pending. I don't believe Parados had signed the authorization," he went on uneasily.

"Why was Parados trying to break you, Annersley?"

"That was his little way. He—he wanted people to hate him."

"Yes, but why did Parados begin to express his hatred for you at this particular time?"

"I've told you."

"No, you haven't. There's a reason."

"Dig for it, then!" Annersley shouted.

"Tell him, Claude!" Celia pleaded. "It must come out!" But Annersley was silent. "Don't you see? Parados liked me—and Claude and I were engaged! There you've got it."

"Why did you remain here, Miss Ferris?"

Celia colored. "I did because—don't you see?—if I had broken with Parados he would have ruined the Fleetwood company — and Claude!" Celia began to weep.

Kirk looked up just then.

"This rose seems to have lost three or four of its petals," he announced. "It's the same shade as the loose petal, too"

Samuels inspected the rose and the petal through the lens. He turned irritably to Annersley.

"Where is that paper Parados hadn't signed?"

"I don't know."

"Do you suppose it was in that safe?"

"I don't know."

"Have you any idea how that petal got inside the safe?"

"I don't know," for the third time.

"Huh," Samuels grunted. "You don't know, yet a drawer in Parados' safe has been broken open, papers valuable to you may have been in it, the safe was open when Hunt left, you hated Parados, and"—Samuels paused, "and you were wearing a yellow rose that has lost some petals."

"And yellow roses frequently lose their petals," Annersley replied, "I can't help it if the person who killed Parados happened to be wearing a yellow rose. That's my bad luck. You're forgotten Miss Jahries' statement."

"Miss Jahries did not actually see you during all that half hour."

Annersley looked around. "Can you help him, Miss Jahries?"

"I saw Mr. Annersley three times while I was in my room," she declared. "I opened the window when I went in and he was on the terrace. Ten minutes later I lowered the window. He still was there. Fifteen minutes after that I closed the window before leaving. Mr. Annersley still was sitting on the terrace. In the interrals I heard him couch and smelled smoke from his cigar!"

"Convinced?" Annersley wanted to know.

"The petal of this rose," Flique interrupted. "It is the principal evidence against M. Annersley, yes?"

"So far," Samuels admitted.

"But if I were to show you another rose—what then?"

"Where is it?"

Flique dived into a waste-paper basket and picked up a yellow rose. It was of the Gold of Ophir variety, similar in size to the one on the table.

"Voila!" Flique exclaimed.

A warm glow spread over Annersley's face, but it was Celia who expressed what both of them felt.

"Oh, Claude!" she wept ecstatically.

"Are you satisfied?" Annersley inquired dryly.

"It's your trick," Samuels admitted. "When did you first notice that rose, Flique?" he demanded.

"But a moment ago. I cast my eyes down and it was there. It will be necessaire to commence again, yes?"

"Not altogether," Samuels said. "I suppose your husband wasn't given to buttonholes, Mrs. Parados?"

"Dan!" Mrs. Parados laughed without humor. "He once discharged an executive for coming into his office with a sprig of mignonette in his coat."

"I don't wear buttonholes, either, Mr. Samuels," Caroline said unexpectedly.

Her blue eyes were challenging and derisive. Her courage had impressed itself upon me and I felt pride as it reasserted itself. Samuels' eyes smouldered with suspicion as he looked at Caroline. The interruption at that moment was fortunate.

"The phoenix is gone!" Mrs. Parados suddenly shrilled. "Dan's jade phoenix!"

Mrs. Parados was pointing at the empty glass case on the mantel—the glass case that had caused Parados such acute distress just before I had left him—a few minutes before his death.

Jubilee's Pardner

A Story of Boyhood Adventure

BY JUDD M. LEWIS

IT WON'T be long now. Me and Jubilee woke up yesterday morning and felt so happy about everything that we laughed in each other's faces. Annebelle Lee is well, and it won't be long till vacation. And that is enough to make anyone happy, even if he does have to have his face and neck and ears washed by an aunt every Sunday.

Jubilee was happy because he didn't have to have his face and neck and ears washed, and I was happy in spite of having to have my face and neck and ears washed, so I was the happiest and I told him so, and when I told him so he grapped right in my face, so I kicked him out of bed and got up and let him down by the rope in his teeth, and when he lit on the ground and let go of the rope he grinned up into my face and turned around to trot under the house and come out on the other side and met the cat spat in the face, and she must have a new mess of kittens under the house or something, and she spit in his face and raised up one paw, and he hit her a sideswipe with his left that surprised her, and rolled her over three times, and she stopped with her back up and her tail swole up and Jubilee looked up and sort of grinned at me and trotted under the house happier even than he was before she saw the cat.

Out cat goes under the house every spring and comes out followed by a whole row of little kittens with their tails sticking straight up in the air, and my mother tells me to take them and dispose of them. She thinks I drowned them, but I don't drownd them, I don't like to, so I take them and scatter them in people's front yards, and I bet they are glad to get them. I don't kill anything but snakes and fish and they don't mind it. We all kill them every summer, so they are used to it.

I got my face fed, and then we took the cows to the pasture and went to where the Lost Bag of Trips robbed the bluejay's nest, and they had gone away and left it. I wish someone would rob his mother's nest and take him away. I bet they would feel worse than he did when the egg busted in his mouth.

After Sunday school we closed the damn and let the water back in the pond, and got chastised out of an orchard for picking apple blossoms. Today was Monday, and we are one day nearer vacation. Pickles carried Youmans books and dropped them in the gutter and him and me fit all the way to school, and the teacher made him go outdoors till his nose stopped bleeding. He stopped by my desk and said he would do me a favor sometime, and grinned at me as he went out. Some people have all the luck.

Most of the friendly and generous deeds are done without any thought of reward.

Love's Reawakening

A Wife's Triumph Over Jealousy

BY ADELE GARRISON

Lillian Deeply Hurt

AS LILLIAN thrust the receiver of the telephone into my hand, I heard the voice of the hotel operator droning: "Number, please!" But instead of giving her Helena Brixton's number again, as Lillian had requested, I hung up the receiver and faced my astonished friend with a little smile.

"Listen to me," I said firmly. "Nothing has happened, nothing, and I know why Mrs. Brixton is coming over here."

There had been something very near anger mingled with the astonishment in her face and it was not wholly exercised as she fell back a step from me and groping for the nearest chair, sat down heavily.

"You mean to be kind," she said slowly, but with a chill in her voice, "but you are not being fair. If Helena has talked to you, then I am all the more convinced that——"

"Will you use what Dicky calls your alleged brain—and I think the adjective should be put in capitals—" I said derossly. "Do you think if anything serious had happened I should be acting this way?" It is simply this. Marion and Carolyn have come home a day earlier that is all, and I suppose Mrs. Brixton fears you may be offended and wishes you to hear her explanation before you see Marion."

She started from her seat impulsively, joy banishing every other emotion.

"Where is Marion?" she said. "Is Helena bringing her? I wonder how near it will take her to come over. Of course, she'll take a taxi, Madge! She ought to be here in a quarter of an hour, don't you think?"

Where Is She?

"Not longer," I said. "But you won't have to wait that long to see Marion, only long enough for me to explain some things to you."

"Why! where is she?"

"Down in the library with Harry. No," as she rushed toward the door, "you must wait. I'll hurry through the telling, but I promised Marion you should hear from me her reason for coming home without notifying you".

She stopped short as if a lasso had settled around her shoulders and, turning, came back to her chair, her eyes fixed on mine.

"I knew there was something," she said as if to herself. "Tell me, Madge, but hurry!"

"It's very simple" I said. "Marion and Carolyn had planned to come home tomorrow with the two classmates whom Carolyn had invited for the holidays."

"I know," Lillian interrupted. "They all had demerits, so they couldn't come home earlier."

"Yes, but Marion and Carolyn unexpectedly found that they had worked theirs off and could come home today if they wished. They did not intend to change their plans for one day, however, but when Mr. Owen appeared at the school this morning—"

Lillian stiffened in her chair, her hands clenching the arms.

"Owen! Charles Owen! That awful man! Are you telling me that Marion came up to town with him?"

"And with Carolyn, his niece, as well, remember that," I said emphatically. "I know; I don't like it any more than you do, but there has been no harm done, there will be none, if you do not exaggerate the importance of the incident to Marion."

Lillian's Anger

My conscience gave a guilty little twinge at my words. Only too keenly I realized that my own uneasiness had made me stress the incident far too strongly to Marion.

"But she came away from the school without my knowing it," Lillian said stubbornly. "What was Mrs. Barnes—"

"That is what Marion fears, that you will blame Mrs. Barnes. Now, please, listen to the reason for all this, and be ashamed of your fussiness. It seems that Ronald wired late morning from Yale that he and one of the three boys who are coming for the holidays could get away today. His mother thereupon planned a theater party for the boys tonight and sent her brother-in-law down with a note to Mrs. Barnes asking that Carloyn and Marion be permitted to come home today. You know Helena is a bit more modern—than you are, Lillian—and believing that you were out at the other end of Long Island, and had not planned to go after Marion until tomorrow, she simply planned a good time for the children, and a surprise for you."

"She surprised me all right," Lillian said grimly. "And even at the risk of not being 'modern' — evidently I had drawn blood on that account—"I am not pleased at all over Helena's action, of course I have to acquit Mrs. Barnes if Owen carried a note from Carolyn's mother. But tell me, why did Marion come here instead of going to the Brixtons? She couldn't have known we were here. But it was sweet of her to take the chance of our coming in earlier. And she has the key. I suppose she thought she could telephone me here at her leisure."

I felt like a small boy, writhing in fear of a thrashing, so I made her the answer which I would have given much to withhold.

"She didn't come here," I said slowly. "I ran across her when I was shopping."

She thought

"You'd be so nice—if it weren't for that hint of 'B.O.!'"

Yet, to be polite,

She said:

"I won't ask you to come in. It's rather late."

A cold good-night

. . . was "B.O." the reason?

(Body Odor)

TOO LATE to ask him in? Why, it was only 10 o'clock. There must be another reason. Why had she turned so cool? Why act so strangely? Friendly at first—then suddenly distant.

Now he knows the reason—knows how to correct the fault that once made people avoid him. Today he's welcome everywhere. "B.O." — body odor — no longer robs him of popularity.

It ruins romance

Many a budding romance has been wrecked because one or the other of the couple was careless about "B.O." Of course no one means to offend. But it's so easy to be guilty and not know it.

Pores give off a quart of odor-causing waste daily—both visible and invisible perspiration. We quickly become so used to this ever-present odor that we don't notice it in ourselves. But others do!

Why take chances when the remedy is so simple, so delightful? Just wash and bathe with Lifebuoy. Its creamy, abundant, antiseptic lather leaves you gloriously, satisfyingly clean—purifies pores so deeply that "B.O." hasn't a chance.

Fresh, radiant beauty

And what a fine complexion soap Lifebuoy is! Work its bland, penetrating lather well into the skin. Deep-cleanses pores—frees them of clogged impurities—freshens dull skins till they glow with healthy beauty. Its pleasant, extra-clean scent—that vanishes as you rinse—tells you Lifebuoy purifies. Adopt Lifebuoy today.

BROOKLYN FANS HOPING FOR PENNANT

LOOKING FOR FIRST FLAG IN TEN YEARS

Robins Gain First Post with Double Sunday Victory; Other Teams Close.

Associated Press Sports Writer

BROOKLYN S baseball fans are brimming over with hope for their first National league pennant in 10 years.

They are holding first place today as a result of a double victory in yesterday s double header against the Phillies

The leading teams are so closely bunched that Pittsburgh in fifth place is only one full game behind the Robins While Brooklyn was defeating the Phillies yesterday 8 to 0 and 7 to 5 the New York Giants were dividing one double header with the Boston Braves and the St Louis Cardinals and Chicago Cubs were splitting another to line up in order behind the Robins

The Braves captured the first game from New York 4 to 1 as old Tom Zachary until recently with the New York Yankees made his debut The Giants won the second game 3 to 2 in 11 innings Travis Jackson had to drop out of the Giant lineup because of mumps the disease which already has laid Wally Roettger low

The Cubs drove out 16 hits including Hack Wilson s tenth and eleventh home runs of the year to stop the St Louis winning streak at nine games The Cubs won the first game 9 6 the Cardinals took the second 8 to 2

Pirates Beat Reds

Lee to Brame gave Pittsburgh a 2 to 1 victory over the Cincinnati Reds Bandes pitching a fine game he scored both Pirate runs one on a homer Benny Frey who opposed him and his first defeat in five games

Three American league games produced no changes in the standing The St Louis Detroit contest was rained out

The Philadelphia Athletics did the most with the least in the hit line making three bowls off Lloyd Brown good for a 4 to 0 victory Mose Grove allowed five hits and fanned eight

Cleveland and Chicago engaged in another close battle with Mel Harder of Cleveland opposing Dutch Henry It was a draw for six innings but the Indians found Henry for two runs in the seventh and got one more off his successor Hal McKain to win 7 to 4

The New York Yankees pounded three Boston pitchers for 19 hits and an 11 to 0 victory while George Pipgras held the Red Sox to three safe blows Babe Ruth started the affair with a home run in the first inning his sixth of the season and his 42nd on as many Sundays

Gallant Fox and Sande Take Place With Big Winners

DERBY WINNER MAY WIN THIRD CLASSIC

Belmont Race in June 7 May Go to Brilliant Three-Year-Old with Sande Up.

BY ALAN GOULD

Associated Press Sports Editor

NEW YORK May 19—Horsemen are reluctant to rush in prematurely with the laurel wreaths of greatness They prefer to let time and the records adjust these matters today however they readily concede that Gallant Fox the thoroughbred around whose neck the rose wreath of Kentucky Derby triumph was hung Saturday and his rider, the equally gallant Earl Sande rank as the most sensational if not the greatest winning combination since the Man O War and Clarence Kummer were unbeatable 10 years ago in three-year-old competition

The winner in succession of the $10 000 Wood Memorial $50 000 Preakness and $50 000 Derby has developed unconquerable habits as a three-year old whereas this big black son of Sir Gallahad Third was just fair to middling as a juvenile

At the rate Sande has been piloting William Woodward s colt through the spring campaign Gallant Fox has a royal chance to capture the third of the big three year old classics the Belmont June 7 and boost his total money winnings beyond the $200 000 mark

Up to Saturday s race Gallant Fox had never been tested in the rain or anything like heavy going

Won Derby in Rain

It rained more or less steadily at Churchill Downs for two hours prior to the Derby It was raining heavily throughout the race It was not sufficient to slow up the track but in spite of decidedly adverse condition Gallant Fox simply laid back his ears responded to some slight urging by Sande on the backstretch and galloped away from the rest of the field Tenney the wet weather horse won by eight in a field of fifteen

Popular fancy to an extraordinary degree has been caught by this combination of Gallant Fox—the only horse since Sir Barton in 1919 to win the Preakness and Derby—and Earl Sande who now has moved to the top with his third victory in a tie with Ike Murphy triple winner in 1884 1890 1891

Sande Career Dramatic

Not since 1921 when he rode Zev to spectacular victories in the Derby and in the $100 000 international race against Papyrus at Belmont park has Sande had the public acclaim that greeted him at Churchill Downs where the Earl of Derby himself was among those to congratulate the winner

Sande s dramatic career has set him a little apart from the rest of the riders He is back on top now after being nearly killed in an accident at Saratoga after a whirl as trainer owner after being disbarred for rough riding in Maryland and reinstated Perhaps Gallant Fox, like racing followers at large has sensed something of the vital spark in Sande s comeback for the combination of horse and rider seems unbeatable—invincible

RAIN and cold forced the curtailment of an already meager week end sports program in Marion The only scheduled attraction, a baseball game between the Marion Merchants and Columbus Pinneon Cleaners was rained out The Sunday golfing brigades were also forced to sit in the clubhouses and relate what might have happened had they been able to get on the fairways At the time of this writing it looks like the Monday baseball games of the Sunday School league No 2 will be played Wednesday if the weather is favorable

Last week we had only fair success in naming the probable winners in the Sunday School leagues but were going to try it once more If we pick half of them it will be more luck than anything else but perhaps it won t make any difference Some of the games should be close and maybe there will be some upsets which will make them all the more interesting Here they are Christians should lose to Lee St but it may be the other way It will be close Forest Lawn should beat First Reformed U B ought to win from St Paul and Wesley will beat the Presbyterians

State Championship in Track, Tennis, Golf and Baseball at Stake.

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS May 19—Ohio high school champions of 1929 will defend their titles in track and tennis doubles but new title holders must be crowned in baseball golf and tennis singles when the four big annual state tournaments are held here next Friday and Saturday

Results of district eliminations held during the last two weekends found Central High school of Columbus still in the race for its fourth straight track championship and East High of Cleveland still represented in the chase for the tennis doubles crown won last year by Nate Ganger and Leslie Funk This year however the tennis entry from Cleveland East will be Funk and Chuck Ferris

Central s baseball team champion of the state last year was dethroned by South High of Columbus in the city league necessitating the elevation of a new king in that sport The golf team which won the state title for Chaminade High school of Dayton last year also failed to survive its district meet Ganger the tennis singles champion from Cleveland East high has been graduated

TARIFF BILL'S FATE UP FOR VOTE TODAY

Senate To Decide Whether Measure Is To Die After 16 Month Task.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON May 19 — The tariff bill was at stake today as the senate began roll calls on the export debenture and flexible provisions with leaders of both parties predicting whether the measure's months of congressional battle would end in conference or in passage of the historic compromise bill before the end of the week.

Both of these amendments have been voted down by the house and the conferees of that branch of congress have declined to participate in further conferences unless the representatives of the senate are permitted to work out compromises on the two disputed provisions.

The two amendments were written into the bill by the senate's Democratic-Independent Republican coalition over the vigorous objection of President Hoover. The leaders of the coalition today opposed the adoption of the Smoot resolution and in addition sought two votes instead of one—separate roll calls on each amendment.

In spite of a week-end drive for ballots by the leaders of the regular Republican bloc the coalition chieftains were confident of winning on one of these issues, which would have the effect of making a conference agreement on the bill a virtual impossibility.

Making no predictions as to the outcome the Republicans sought to bring into their column enough votes to offset the eight and five-ballot margins by which the debenture and flexible amendments were approved originally.

Ask for bread and you may be given the stony stare.

DANNER REPORTS ON BUICK RECEIVERSHIP

Marion Auto Concern Has Cash Balance of $3,247, Records Show.

The Marion Buick Co has cash on hand of $3,247 09 with $4,895 76 in claims against it according to the report of Carl F Danner receiver filed in common pleas court today.

Danner recommends the settlement of only $10,295.20 of the claims which are to be heard later by Judge George B Scofield.

Property of the company was sold several weeks ago, following which the receiver made disbursements which left a balance of $4,247.09 at the time of the filing of the report.

Danner was appointed receiver on March 26 after a petition for such receivership was filed by the National City Bank & Trust Co which held alleged unpaid notes against the concern.

AUDITOR MAILS 150 CIGARET BLANKS

Retail and Wholesale Tobacco Dealers Must Renew Licenses by May 26

Nearly 150 application blanks for cigaret licenses were mailed Saturday by County Auditor Earl E. Thomas to retail and wholesale tobacco dealers in Marion county.

The cigaret year ends next Monday May 26 and dealers who wish to renew their permits must file their applications before that date. Thomas requested each to file by Friday of this week in order that he may be able to make up his cigaret duplicate before Monday.

Penalty for failure to obtain a permit to sell cigarets will result in an increase of the regular $50 tax to $200, Thomas said today.

Dealers who intend to quit selling cigarets are asked by Thomas to make such a notation on the blank and return it to him.

AUDITOR MAILS 150 CIGARET BLANKS

Retail and Wholesale Tobacco Dealers Must Renew Licenses by May 26

Nearly 150 application blanks for cigaret licenses were mailed Saturday by County Auditor Earl F Thomas to retail and wholesale tobacco dealers in Marion county

The cigaret year ends next Monday May 26 and dealers who wish to renew their permits must file their applications before that date Thomas requested each to file by Friday of this week in order that he may be able to make up his cigaret duplicate before Monday

Penalty for failure to obtain a permit to sell cigarets will result in an increase of the regular $60 tax to $200 Thomas said today

Dealers who intend to quit selling cigarets are asked by Thomas to make such a notation on the blank and return it to him

RADIO NEWS AND PROGRAMS

World Famous Pianist Makes Debut Over Air

OSSIP GABRILOWITSCH, world-famous pianist and conductor of the Detroit Symphony Orchestra, makes his first radio appearance exclusively as a soloist when presented over the WEAF network as guest of the Family Party Monday night at 8:30 o'clock.

Gabrilowitsch will play five selections arranged in two groups. The first division is made up of two of the most representative pieces by Chopin, the Polish pianoforte master. These are "Nocturne in D Flat" and "Waltz in A Flat." According to critics Gabrilowitsch "reveals the piano compositions of the great Pole with superb understanding and with a gift of illumination which transcends mere interpretation."

The pianist was born in St. Petersburg, Russia, and studied under Anton Rubinstein, Victor Tolstoff, Liadow and Glazounow. Romain Rolland, biographer of Beethoven, predicted a great future for Gabrilowitsch when he was still a boy. In 1900 he made his first visit to the United States and 21 years later became a citizen of this country. Since 1918 he has conducted the Detroit orchestra. This year he made his radio debut with his orchestra but the appearance with the Family Party is his first radio broadcast without his own organization.

The Gypsy quartet takes to the sea in a medley of nautical songs which will be heard when the Gypsies broadcast over the WEAF network Monday night at 7:30 o'clock.

Guy Fraser Harrison, conductor of the Stromberg-Carlson orchestra, will play "Pizzicato Ostinato" from the "Fourth Symphony" by Tschaikowsky, over the WJZ network from the studios of WHAM, Rochester, Monday night at 9 o'clock.

SOPHIE BRASLAU

Miss Braslau, termed by one admirer as "a gorgeous contralto," will be featured in a Russian program over the WJZ network at 7:30 o'clock Tuesday night.

The Plane of Dreams, pursuing its imaginary flight through time and space with Frank Black as musical pilot, includes a glimpse of Victor Herbert's "Orange Blossoms" and a Negro spiritual from the South in the program to be heard through stations associated with the WEAF network Monday night at 9 o'clock.

Real Russian folk songs will be interpreted by a Balalaika orchestra as the music lover turns to thoughts of bygone days during the Sign of the Shell broadcast from the NBC Chicago Studios Monday night at 9:30 o'clock over the WEAF network.

Music of Hills Is Portrayed by Mountain Boys

THE Crockett Mountaineers, a father and five sons, direct descendants of Davie Crockett, who hail from the backwoods of Kentucky, will broadcast a 15-minute program of typical "hill-billy" songs and music daily except Sunday at 5:15 o'clock beginning Monday over WABC and the Columbia Broadcasting System.

Their act has been a vaudeville feature for a year, but it was only after much persuasion on the part of a booking agent that they decided to leave their native Sharpsburg with its 80 inhabitants for a New York engagement. They play the violin, guitar, banjo, bones and concertina.

Johnny, Jr., the family composer, has written a book of songs, which is considered a text-book of mountaineer music. He cannot read notes, but neither can Irving Berlin. Johnny picks out the tunes on his banjo. His melodies are given to his father, who teaches them to the other boys. John, Sr. gave his sons their only musical instruction. They have 650 songs in their repertoire.

How the famous earless man heard musical sounds; how Babe Ruth knocked 25 home runs in one day; how Ty Cobb broke baseball records every day for more than a year, and other odd but interesting facts drawn from the fields of sports and music will be told by Robert L. Ripley during a program to be broadcast over the WEAF network Monday evening at 6:30 o'clock.

Josef Stopak, concertmaster of the Roxy Symphony Orchestra, who recently performed as a violin soloist with the Reading Symphony Orchestra and during one of the concerts of the Beethoven Association at the Town Hall, New York, will be the featured artist during the broadcast by Roxy and his "Gang" over the WJZ network Monday evening at 5:30 o'clock.

Leading Broadway productions will form the basis of the program by Jesse Crawford, "poet of the organ," when he broadcasts over WABC and the Columbia Broadcasting System direct from the Paramount Organ Studios, New York, at 9:30 o'clock Monday night. Paul Small, tenor, and Louis A. Witten, master of ceremonies, are also included in the half hour program.

The perennial civil war in China and the havoc that accompanies it will be viewed by James G. McDonald, chairman of the Foreign Policy association, in his weekly talk over the WJZ network Monday evening at 6:15 o'clock.

Retting and Platt piano duo, will feature the Maytag Orchestra's broadcast when they play "Dizzy Fingers" by Zez Confrey in the NBC Chicago Studios, Monday night at 8 o'clock over the WJZ network.

Guy Lombardo and his Royal Canadians will present a program of popular dance music during the Robert Burns Panatela program to be broadcast at 9 o'clock Monday night over WABC and the Columbia Broadcasting System.

Norma Shearer Here in Picture Banned from Screen Under One Name, But Admitted Under New Title; Big Array of Stars in "Show of Shows."

BY HALLIE HOUCK

Norma Shearer, beautiful, talented and refined, stars in "Ex-Wife," the book that was banned from the screen, but which came out of the film box as "The Divorcee," and will be at the Palace Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday. If you haven't read "Ex-Wife," you've missed half of your modern literature, and with Shearer in the title role, you can't afford to leave this picture out of the yearly talking program.

Norma Shearer.

With Miss Shearer in this picture are three individually well known actors, Chester Morris, Robert Montgomery, and Conrad Nagel. The story was by Ursula Parrott.

Miss Shearer plays the part of a girl who finds that her husband is playing around. She has an affair with his best friend and the Bernard couple end up in the divorce court.

Warner Oland, Neil Hamilton, Jean Arthur, William Austin and O. P. Heggie are again involved in a "Fu Manchu" picture, this time "The Return of Dr. Fu Manchu," playing the Palace, yesterday and today.

Why tell what we know about a perfectly good mystery thriller, that if it is as good as the trailer last week, will result in thousands of nightmares over the city of Marion.

The Palace is giving the public Richard Dix in "Lovin' the Ladies," next Friday and Saturday. Dix is an actor who is generally dependable for entertainment, if you'll remember his former pictures.

Lois Wilson, lovely girl of the films, plays opposite Dix, and this pair is quite pleasant working together. The picture is from LeBaron's play, "I Love You." Dix plays the role of an electrician who masquerades in high society.

The story says that instead of having just one girl, Dix is involved with four.

Seventy-Seven Stars—Count 'Em

"SHOW of Shows," at the Marion Sunday, Monday and Tuesday, has been released for some time, but Marion has not had the pleasure of witnessing the eyeful of gorgeousness Warner Bros. offers.

There has been so much talk about this production that one feels one knows what it's all about except for seeing the show. It's in natural color.

Every radio bug has tuned in on "Singin' in the Bab-Tub." Winnie Lightner and Bull Montana do a bathroom scene, with Bull serenading Winnie. There's a Florodora number that should take some of the patrons back to the days when a stage show was a stage show and not a talking picture. Then there're John Barrymore, Beatrice Lillie (Lady Peel Ben Turpin, Lloyd Hamilton, Georges Carpentier, French pugilist, Dolores and Helene Costello, Richard Barthelmess, H. B. Warner, Monte Blue, Louise Fazenda, Lois Wilson, Pauline Garon, et cetera ad infinitum, until you reach the end of a list of 77 stars.

More Laughs on Edward Horton

Horton isn't known for outstanding productions of the year but he can be depended upon for hearty laughs and after all, that's what counts for the public of today. A little drama once in a while, but laughs more frequently.

Edward Horton

Patsy Ruth Miller is teamed with Horton again in "The Aviator," coming to the Marion next Friday and Saturday. Patsy has been his teammate in his last three talking pictures, and in several of his silent productions.

The aviator-made country will get a kick out of Horton as the grounded boy who is made to appear a reckless ace, because of a sudden notion of a friend.

Personally, if for no other reason, "Rich People" at the Marion, Wednesday and Thursday, would be a good show because Regis Toomey plays in it. Remember him in "Alibi"? One reviewer says of it: "Sophisticated comedy-drama for an intelligent audience." We hope Marion audiences are intelligent enough to appreciate the show.

Constance Bennett, plays a girl who is used to money and all it can buy, but she doesn't have love. As the advertisements say, "When a poor man entered her life, how was she to overcome his scruples about wedding a daughter of rich people? Robert Ames is also in the cast.

Three Stars in "The Lost Zeppelin."

HERE'S a picture with a setting in the Antarctic, made famous in the United States through Commander Byrd's famous exploits.

Conway Tearle, Virginia Valli and Ricardo Cortez are featured in the play, "The Lost Zeppelin," at the Ohio Wednesday through Saturday.

Here's some dope we found out about the story:

Conway Tearle, world-famed explorer who worships his wife, Virginia V., lies in the arms of Ricardo Cortez. Virginia sits at home when the two set out on their Antarctic expedition and listens to their adventures via radio. Tearle tells Cortez that he'll give Virginia her divorce. The zeppelin crashes on a frozen mountain, and the last message Virginia hears is that the zep is falling. Tearle is saved through Tearle's self-sacrifice and returns to find that—see the picture, folks.

The Ohio theater is presenting Charlie Murray and George Sidney in another Cohen and Kelly comedy, this time they're in Scotland. The show began Saturday and plays through Tuesday. Vera Gordon and Kate Price, are their wives.

You might guess that the Cohens and Kellys are on the outs when they arrive in Scotland without knowing that the other family's there.

THIMBLE THEATER — BY SEGAR

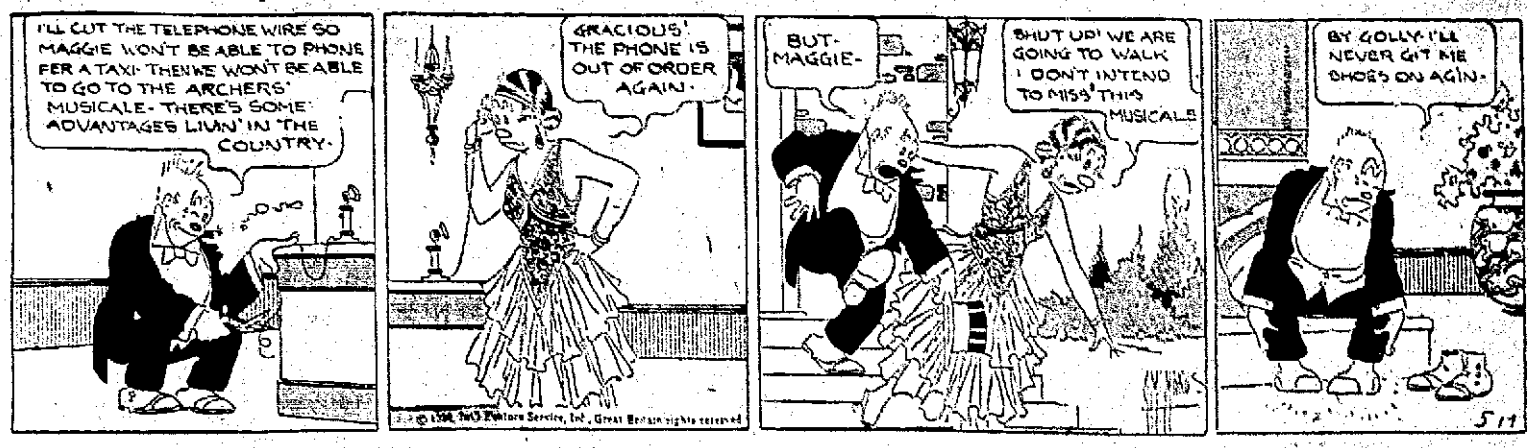
MY NAME IS KILPH- PROFESSOR KILPH- HERE'S MY CARD, AND IF YOU DON'T THINK IT'S ENGRAVED RUB YOUR THUMB OVER IT-
SO YOU ARE CASTOR OYL? HEH! HEH! GOOFY NAME — YES-YES- I COLLECT THINGS. IT'S MY HOBBY- OBJECTS OF ART- OIL PAINTINGS, HEH! HEH! "OIL"— THAT REMINDS ME OF YOUR NAME— RIDICULOUS ISN'T IT?
AND I AM THE ONLY EGG COLLECTOR IN THE WORLD. I HAVE BIG EGGS AND LITTLE EGGS - RED, WHITE AND BLUE EGGS
WELL, WHAT DO YOU WANT WITH ME?
JUST THIS - I HEAR YOU OWN A WHIFFLE HEN— NOW IF SHE EVER TAKES A NOTION TO LAY AN EGG I'LL GIVE YOU FIVE HUNDRED DOLLARS FOR IT
YOU'LL PAY $500.00 FOR A WHIFFLE HEN EGG?!
EGG ZACKLY
COME HERE, BERNICE, I WANT TO HAVE A LITTLE TALK WITH YOU

JUST KIDS — BY AD CARTER

I'M SORRY I WAS A BAD BOY-MOM-KIN I GO OUT-PLEASE?
YOU MAY NOT!
OH GOSH! I GUESS I HAFTA STAY IN!
GEE!
OH GOSH!
MOM-KIN PLEASE SO OUT FER A CERTAIN REASON?
IF YOU MENTION GOING OUT AGAIN- I'LL WARM THE SEAT OF YOUR PANTS!
HERE I AM IN THE HOUSE AN' THE FELLERS JES' WAITIN' FER ME TO KICK THE PANTS OFF 'EM!

KRAZY KAT — BY HERRIMAN

BRINGING UP FATHER — BY GEORGE McMANUS



I'LL CUT THE TELEPHONE WIRE SO MAGGIE WON'T BE ABLE TO PHONE FER A TAXI- THEN WE WON'T BE ABLE TO GO TO THE ARCHERS' MUSICALE- THERE'S SOME ADVANTAGES LIVIN' IN THE COUNTRY.
GRACIOUS! THE PHONE IS OUT OF ORDER AGAIN.
BUT- MAGGIE-
SHUT UP! WE ARE GOING TO WALK I DON'T INTEND TO MISS THIS MUSICALE
BY GOLLY- I'LL NEVER GIT ME SHOES ON AGIN-

TILLIE THE TOILER — BY RUSS WESTOVER

WELL, MUMSY MAC QUIT US TODAY BECAUSE HE COULDN'T RUN THE BUSINESS
GOOD LANDS TILLIE, IF THERE'S ANYBODY THAT CAN RUN THE BUSINESS, IT'S MAC
YEH, BUT MAC DIDN'T PUT ANY MONEY IN THE BUSINESS. SO WHY SHOULD HE TELL US HOW TO SPEND OUR MONEY?
I'VE ALWAYS HAD A LOT OF CONFIDENCE IN MAC AND I'M NOT LOSING IT NOW
YOU DON'T KNOW MAC, MUMSY- HE HASN'T ANY IDEA OF MODERN FINANCING IN BUSINESS
HE HAS MORE ABILITY THAN THAT BIG NOISE, MR. WHIPPLE
DING
THIS IS MAC, MRS. JONES, SPEAKING FROM SIMPKINS AND COMPANY- I JUST RANG UP TO TELL YOU WHY I QUIT WORKING FOR JONES, WHIPPLE AND CO. THERE WASN'T ANY MONEY IN THE BANK AND STILL THEY WERE BUYING THINGS- I DIDN'T GET MY LAST WEEK'S SALARY AND I DON'T WANT IT UNTIL THEY PAY YOU EVERY CENT YOU INVESTED IN THE BUSINESS
RUSS WESTOVER

THE GUMPS — BY SIDNEY SMITH

WHAT I'D LIKE TO KNOW IS- WHERE CAN YOU FIND A SWEETER, TRUER, MORE WONDERFUL WOMAN THAN HEAVENEYES OR A LUCKIER MAN THAN I ?
AND WHAT I'D LIKE TO KNOW IS-WHEN DO I GET MY 40% ?
SCROOGE
WHEN THE CIRCUS RUN SHAKE UP AND GET WIFE
TILDA
I'D LIKE TO KNOW HOW CARLOS GOT OUT OF PRISON - WHY HE IS HERE - AND WHAT HE IS UP TO -
AND WHOSE FOOT PRINTS ARE THESE I FIND IN MY YARD AGAIN THIS MORNING- WHO IS THE ONE LEGGED MAN - THAT'S WHAT I'D LIKE TO KNOW-

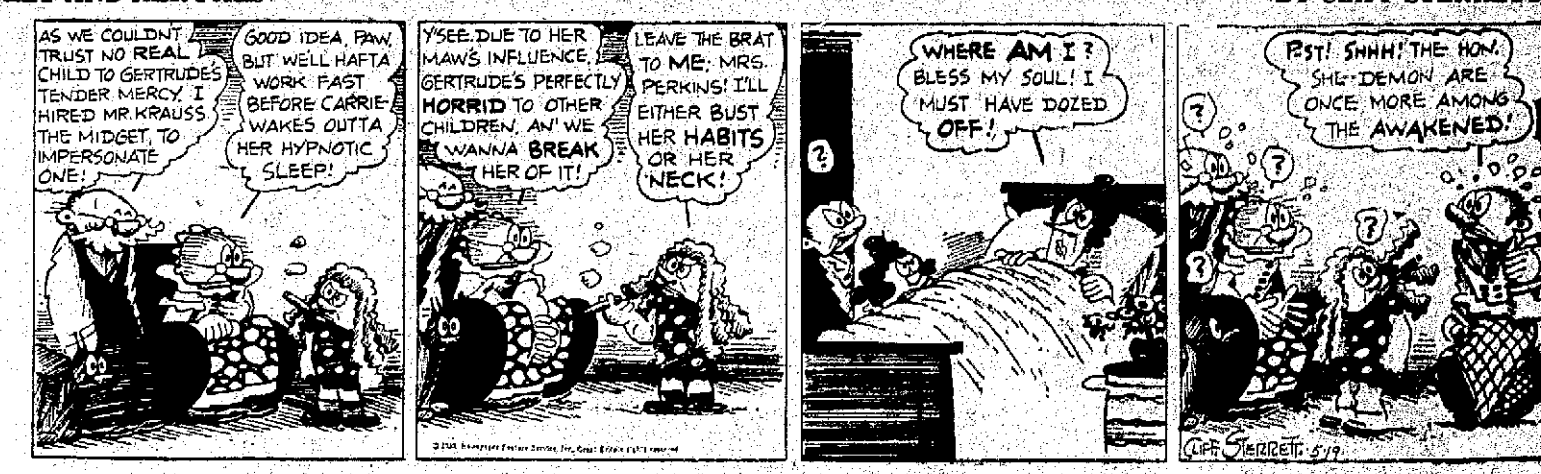
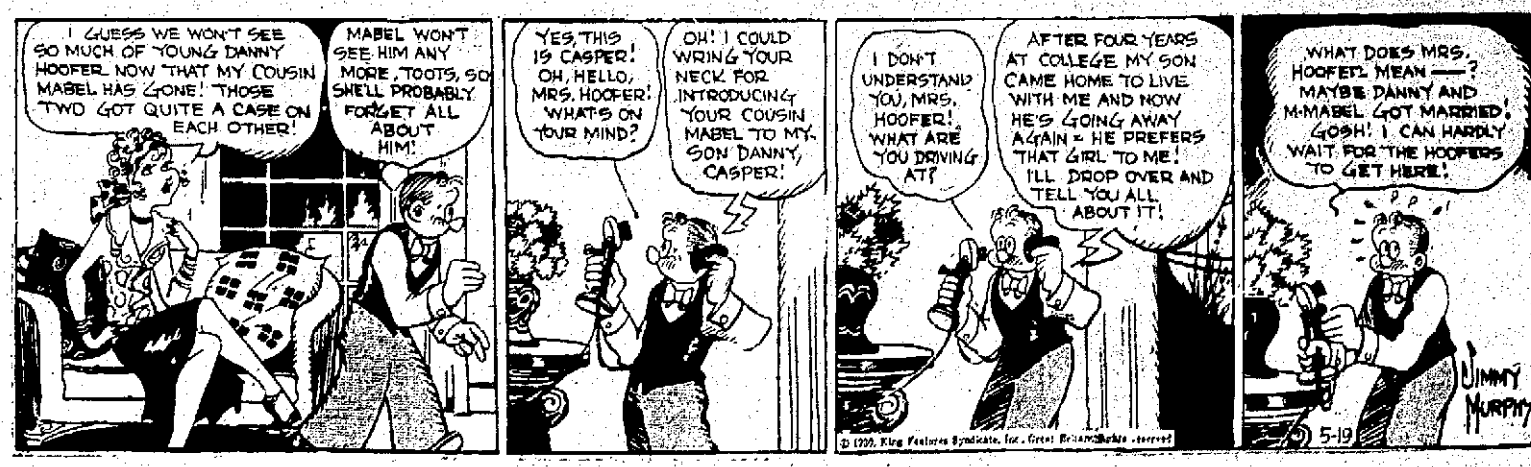
POLLY AND HER PALS — BY CLIFF STERRETT



AS WE COULDN'T TRUST NO REAL CHILD TO GERTRUDE'S TENDER MERCY, I HIRED MR. KRAUSS, THE MIDGET, TO IMPERSONATE ONE!
GOOD IDEA, PAW, BUT WE'LL HAFTA WORK FAST BEFORE CARRIE WAKES OUTTA HER HYPNOTIC SLEEP!
Y'SEE, DUE TO HER MAW'S INFLUENCE, GERTRUDE'S PERFECTLY HORRID TO OTHER CHILDREN, AN' WE WANNA BREAK HER OF IT!
LEAVE THE BRAT TO ME; MRS. PERKINS! I'LL EITHER BUST HER HABITS OR HER NECK!
WHERE AM I? BLESS MY SOUL! I MUST HAVE DOZED OFF!
PST! SHHH! THE HON. SHE-DEMON ARE ONCE MORE AMONG THE AWAKENED!
CLIFF STERRETT 5-19

TOOTS AND CASPER — BY JIMMY MURPHY



I GUESS WE WON'T SEE SO MUCH OF YOUNG DANNY HOOFER NOW THAT MY COUSIN MABEL HAS GONE! THOSE TWO GOT QUITE A CASE ON EACH OTHER!
MABEL WON'T SEE HIM ANY MORE, TOOTS, SO SHE'LL PROBABLY FORGET ALL ABOUT HIM!
YES, THIS IS CASPER! OH, HELLO, MRS. HOOFER! WHAT'S ON YOUR MIND?
OH! I COULD WRING YOUR NECK FOR INTRODUCING YOUR COUSIN MABEL TO MY SON DANNY, CASPER!
I DON'T UNDERSTAND YOU, MRS. HOOFER! WHAT ARE YOU DRIVING AT?
AFTER FOUR YEARS AT COLLEGE MY SON CAME HOME TO LIVE WITH ME AND NOW HE'S GOING AWAY AGAIN - HE PREFERS THAT GIRL TO ME! I'LL DROP OVER AND TELL YOU ALL ABOUT IT!
WHAT DOES MRS. HOOFER MEAN —? MAYBE DANNY AND M-MABEL GOT MARRIED! GOSH! I CAN HARDLY WAIT FOR THE HOOFERS TO GET HERE!
JIMMY MURPHY
5-19

ANNIE ROONEY — BY BEN BATSFORD

GOOD-BYE - DON'T WORRY BOUT ME - I'LL BE O.K. - TAKE GOOD CARE OF ZERO - I DON'T S'POSE I'LL BE SEEIN' HIM AGAIN - WELL GOOD-BYE AN' GOOD LUCK-
GEE, IT'S TOUGH TO LOSE YOUR BEST FRIEND, YOUR HOME AND A SWELL LITTLE MUTT LIKE ZERO, ALL AT THE SAME TIME - I CAN'T HELP WONDERIN' WHY MR. ALBERT DIDN'T BRING ZERO DOWN TO SAY GOOD-BYE TO ME - HE KNOWS WE WAS PALS -
GLORYOSKY - IF IT AIN'T LITTLE ZERO, IN PERSON! IF YOU WAS A SOLID GOLD POOCH WITH DIAMOND EYES I WOULDN'T BE ANY GLADDER TO SEE YOU-
RUF R-RUF
GOOD LUCK AND ZERO--FROM A.A.
A.A. - THAT'S FROM MR. ALBERT - I ONLY KNOW A COUPLE OF PRAYERS AN' THEY'RE NOT VERY SWELL ONES BUT I'M SURE GOULA KEEP ON SAYIN' 'EM OVER AN' OVER FOR THAT GRAND OL' GUY -

TRADING LIGHT ON BIG BOARD

New York Exchange Faces Fourth Successive Day of Little Activity.

NEW YORK, May 19—Trading in the stock market was in extremely small volume today, for the fourth successive session. Efforts of the speculative leaders to stir up interest in their favorites brought meager results and the market preferred to mark time.

Wall Street manifested considerable interest in the formal setting up of the new bank to supplant the mechanism of the Dawes plan for collecting German reparations. It also was reported that final details on the first issue of reparation bonds would be available in a day or two. Business and industrial reports were virtually unchanged, though in general promising a good recovery in trade before the end of the summer.

Stock trading in the first three hours was at the rate of about 1,000,000 shares. The bears made an early effort to unsettle the market by selling the industrial and utility stocks but the bulls were too strongly entrenched, and most of the lost ground was recovered.

In the afternoon, United States Steel at 170⅞ showed a loss of 2 points; Westinghouse was down 2; General Electric, North American, American Can and Radio Keith down a point each. The rails made a better showing. Katy reaching a new high at the more at 60 and Erie up 1½ at 50.

WHEAT PRICES SLUMP TODAY

Liverpool Quotations Influence Market; Chicago Declines After Rally.

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, May 19—Wheat prices here declined early today, influenced by Liverpool quotations lower than looked for and by reports of enlarged offerings from Argentina. The amount of wheat on ocean passage showed a decrease from last week, but an increase of the total destined for Great Britain. Opening ¼@½c off, Chicago wheat after underwent some additional sag, and then rallied. Corn and oats were easy, with corn starting unchanged to ⅜c higher, and subsequently receding. Provisions held firm.

One of the rallies in wheat values today was based on buying that came about in connection with reports of Hessian fly damage to crops in eastern Nebraska. The reports said many of the best fields have been destroyed and that numerous additional fields are believed to be infested. General wet weather west, however, caused bearish traders to ridicule attaching importance to such advices.

Assertions that North American wheat export business over the week-end lacked volume and had been confined to wheat grown in Canada tended to handicap friends of higher prices. It was intimated that the Canadian growers' pool is offering wheat at well below other exporters. There were also Oklahoma dispatches at hand telling of almost state-wide improvement of wheat crop conditions as a result of better weather of late.

Grain Market

Today's Close

CHICAGO, May 19—Grains closed easier today. Wheat was off 1⅞ to 2⅛c; corn ⅝ to 1⅜c and oats ⅝ to 1⅛c. Rye was 1⅜ to 1⅝c lower.

Young Woman Admits Charge of Burglary

Miss Gladys Shelly, alias Texas Jones, 22, of Warren, is in city prison this morning after verbally confessing, according to police, that she stole a mantel clock from the women's rest room in the court house Saturday and sold it to a second hand dealer for 50 cents.

She is also credited with theft of linen from a Marion hotel, which was also sold to secondhand store dealers for 75 cents, police say.

There are lots of wise men until you get next to them.
